'Town Hall' Meeting

Police Praised, Criticized On Procedures At Beach

Praise and criticism of police procedures involving beach problems were mingled Thursday night when the Ocean Beach Town Council sponsored a "town hall" meeting at Ocean Beach Recreation Center.

More than 30 persons attended the event. Don Heller was moderator.

Backing police in their actions at the foot of Newport Avenue and in Pacific Beach were Ned Titlow, Council president; John Dowell, president of the Pacific Beach Town Council, and Gerald Seymour, vice president of the P.B. Council.

Titlow summarized recent events in Ocean Beach and discussed steps that have been taken to prevent further disturbances. He stressed that his group has received complete cooperation from the police.

"The Fourth of July weekend will be the acid test of the new measures that have been taken," he said. Titlow added that the presence of walking patrolmen, rather than patrol cars, was a more effective method of assuring order on the beach.

Dowell said problems facing the Ocean Beach area were similar to those encountered in Pacific Beach. He read a 13-point letter from Councilman Jack Walsh outlining preventive measures which have been placed in effect in Pacific Beach.

"Our big problem in Pacific Beach has been noise," said Dowell. "We are especially bothered by vehicular noise. In many cases youngsters park their cars in the beach area and turn on their car radios real loud.

"Vandalism hasn't been much of a problem. Our litter problem has been greatly eased by the installation of more trash cans.

"Cooperation of the police has been very good." He said some property owners were lax in that they failed to notify police promptly when trouble developed.

Seymour advised the group to proceed slowly in making more recreational equipment available on the beach.

"You must find out if youth will respond to such a program," he said. "Before you expend money and energy on more recreational activities, make sure that is what the young people want."

Mrs. Jean Ross, vice president of the Ocean Beach Council, said she had been informed that it was mainly youngsters from junior high schools who were responsible for the disturbances.

Carl Lindsey, a Pacific Beach motel owner, criticized property owners who were reluctant to sign complaints against law violators.

"Some of the property owners want police help but don't want to become involved," he said. "Police need help to help you."

A member of the audience, Dave Jackson, of 4504 Cape May Ave., defended the youths and criticized police for their displays of force.

"We have to realize this is a public beach and the young people have a right to be there," he said. "Lack of proper outlets for the youths is the main reason for their restlessness.

"We can't force them to do things, we must understand them. We are treating symptoms, and not causes. Youth is concerned with spirit, and we're concerned with economics."

Jackson added that police displays of force are more likely to cause outbreaks than prevent them.

Katheen Saner, 20, of 4735 Newport Ave., also criticized police actions and charged that in many cases the police were discriminatory, stopping juveniles but ignoring adult law violators.

"The police hassle us, and we hassle the police," said Miss Saner.

Walsh Asks Controls On Guns

Councilman Jack Walsh has asked for a City Council conference to discuss the possibility of an ordinance that would require San Diegans to register all firearms.

"Recent events and the rise in crime should not stampede us into reactionary laws," said Walsh, "but it should cause us to focus our attention on the need for local controls without delay." Walsh said registration could be on a no-charge basis through the city's 35 fire stations.

Walsh said a proposal by Mayor Frank Curran earlier this week that citizens turn in their weapons on a voluntary basis was "well motivated but inadequate."

"This approach might possibly prevent a tragedy by reducing childrens' access to guns," said Walsh, "but it lacks the necessary effect on all gun owners that registration with police could produce." Walsh said punishment for crime is a deterrent and that common knowledge of modern ballistic detection would be a deterrent to the criminal use of guns if they are registered.

Walsh said that although some oppose gun registration as an infringement on the right to bear arms that presently the registration of bicycles, boats, autos, and babies has not lead to infringements.

Another city official, Police Chief O. J. Roed, said this week that he does not feel firearms should be registered. Roed said law-abiding citizens would register their arms, but that the criminal element would go "underground' and disregard registration legislation.

JULY 4 SPECTACULAR

Fireworks To Draw 30,000

More than 30,000 spectators are expected to throng to the Peninsula area July 4 to witness the spectacular holiday fireworks display planned from the Municipal Fishing Pier.

A three-act stage show featuring a ventriloquist and two bands also is being planned for the program sponsored by the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce.

Clarence Dersch, a member of the fireworks fund committee, said that the show, under present plans, will be held on a temporary stage at the corner of Cable Street and Newport Avenue. The show is slated to start at 7:30 p.m., and the fireworks will begin at 9.

In addition to Dersch, the committee in charge includes Don Erickson, chairman; Rev. Robert Fehlman, Tom Arnold, Ramona Peterson and Gloria Crowninshield.

It also was announced that Jill Kammerer, Miss Peninsula, will distribute about 300 free facsimiles of the Declaration of Independence at the celebration. The Peninsula Chamber of Commerce raised more than $1,000 to finance the fireworks show. The complete list of contributors:

Peck Plumbing, Ocean Beach Cleaners, Ocean Beach Auto Trim, Jo's Flower Shop, Corner Market, Siegel Realty, Frank Humphries, Rowland Realty, A-1 Refrigerator Sales, Ocean Beach Paint and Hardware, Para's Shop, Ocean Beach Bake Shop.

Cliffs League Seeks Officers

Nominations for a new slate of officers are being accepted by the nominating committee of the Sunset Cliffs Preservation League, Mrs. Joan Farman, committee chairman, announced this week.

Those who have nominations or wish to run for office themselves are asked to contact Mrs. Iola Fuchs, 4561 Osprey St., at 222-2557.

Offices to be filled include president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, membership chairman and four additional board members.

'Brightening' Planned For Ocean Beach

A petition signed by 29 property owners in the area has been completed, assuring installation of new mercury vapor, 400-watt lights on Newport Avenue from Abbott Street to Sunset Cliffs Boulevard.

Pat Piro, who headed the campaign as chairman of the Ocean Beach Town Council's promotional committee, said the petition would be submitted this week to the city engineer's office.

"Normally it takes 18 months to two years to complete such a project," explained Piro, "but due to the urgency of our situation, there is a strong chance that our lights will be erected within eight months."

Twenty-eight new lights which will provide five times more illumination than is provided by present lamps will be installed.

The project will call for an outlay of $27,400, representing a cost of $8 per front foot. In all, the project covers 3,425 feet. Of this figure, 2,070 front feet belong to property owners who signed the petition.

Financing will be accomplished by assessment over a 10-year period. The city will not share in the cost.

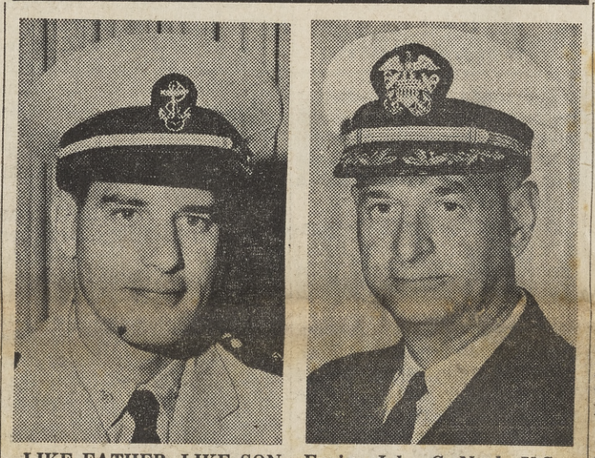
Merchants say the new lights are expected to stimulate business, pointing out that potential customers have been reluctant to shop there after dark due to the lack of sufficient illumination.

The new lights will be identical to those which have already been installed in the vicinity of Newport Avenue and Cable Street. If the cost is within the budget, decorative light standards will be installed.

"We want to express our deepest gratitude to the property owners who cooperated with us," said Piro.

"This will definitely improve our business, especially during the winter when it gets dark early. Now that we are going to have adequate lighting, we certainly should draw more customers during the late hours."

Assisting Piro in the campaign were Don Heller, Hy Glaser, Ray Perine, Dick Thorpe, Ellie Whelan, George Lucky, Jeanette Hendrickson, and Merril Crow.



LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON—Ensign John G. Neeb, U.S. Navy, received his commission from his father, Capt. Lewis H. Neeb, U.S. Navy, Thursday in ceremonies on board the San Diego based submarine tender USS Sperry (AS12). John earned his commission through the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program at Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana where he graduated this month. He has been participating in the submarine phase of the Navy summer midshipman training in San Diego. Captain Neeb commands Submarine Squadron Three with headquarters at Ballast Point. John's mother, Bess, was present at the ceremony and assisted in pinning on the Ensign's shoulder boards. The Neebs reside at the Submarine Support Facility, Ballast Point.

Shortage Of Labor Delays Work On Inn

A shortage of qualified labor has delayed construction of the Dana Inn, according to Doug Letson, representative of the Fabulous Five-Seven Development Corp.

Letson said that the completion of the sportsmen's inn in Mission Bay will be delayed due to the "tremendous shortage of qualified carpenters and electricians."

"Craftsmen are practically non-existent," said Letson. "There is apparently too much activity in the San Diego area. We have work calls out as far as Phoenix and Tucson. The slight delay is due because there are not sufficient capable men to report to work."

The roofing of the first of eight buildings will be executed Tuesday. All eight floor-slabs have been poured already. In addition, the first floor of five of the eight separate buidings have been framed.

Framing of second floors has been completed on the first two buildings.

Letson said the lease for the restaurant has not yet been signed. Contracts for the boat slips will be awarded in the near future. The slips will be available concurrenty with the opening of the hotel.

Letson said the opening date has been moved to the first part of October from the first part of September.

The city's contract for the parking lot is completed according to Letson. He said there are 326 parking spaces there for cars and boat trailers. City officials say that as soon as the irrigation system is accepted, the lights will be turned on so that there will be 24-hour operation of the facility.

Landscaping on the area started Thursday.

There is gasoline and live bait available at this area sold by the Dana Marina. All parking and launching is free to the public.

The Dana Inn will be a low cost motel for sportsmen wishing to use Mission Bay facilities.

Bells Ring On Fourth At Sessions

Bells will ring out from Kate Sessions Park Thursday as part of an Independence Day tradition started by the late President John F. Kennedy.

City Beautiful of San Diego will sponsor this annual "Bells on Independence Day" at 10:15 a.m. July 4. The park is located at Lamont Street and Soledad Road.

CLANG AT 11 A.M.

At 11 a.m. the bells will clang out just as they will be ringing elsewhere in the western United States. Mrs. Raymond Smith, chairman of the event for City Beautiful, said that everyone should bring along anything that looks or sounds like a bell.

Mrs. Smith will award certificates to the youngest and oldest bell, the youngest and oldest bell ringer, and the most unusual bell.

Guest speakers will include Cmdr. Rae Laff, a nurse at Naval Hospital who recently returned from duty in a hospital ship off the shores of Vietnam.

INVOCATION

Making the Invocation will be Rev. J. V. Roth of the Pacific Beach Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Smith said that people attending the ceremony should bring chairs if they wish to sit down. There is no provision for spectators in the park.

Fire Forces Family To Flee Home

John L. Roche, a deputy district attorney, and his family were forced to flee their home at 2318 Plum St., Loma Portal, early Friday after a fire broke out in the residence.

The fire started when a pair of wet tennis shoes placed over a gas heater to dry ignited and spread flames to a couch and the adjoining living room.

Fire Capt. Louie A. Vegas said the living room was extensively burned and the rest of the home suffered smoke damage.

Roche's wife, Marilyn, and their two daughters were trapped by intense heat in the upstairs section and went out on a balcony. They were removed from there by an extension ladder.

Cobb Prefers Use Of Mace

Councilwoman Helen Cobb said this week that she considers the chemical Mace used by law enforcement officers here to be a humane way to handle a violent person.

Mrs. Cobb described in graphic detail to the Clairemont Town Council Wednesday her reactions to the new chemical used on her in a recent demonstration she requested.

She said she would not advise using the chemical for "weekend games" but that it is highly effective when used by trained personnel to subdue persons of violent temperament.

San Diego is the only city that uses Mace in the eyes, Mrs. Cobb said. Law enforcement agencies in other cities have discontinued use of the chemical because of negative response from several segments of the community.

The councilwoman said a policewoman sprayed the chemical in her face in a planned demonstration before members of the press, the police and various members of city government.

She said her first reaction after the chemical hit was of extreme pain, and that she immediately raised her arms "as though I was bringing them up through water."

Mrs. Cobb said she had difficulty staying on her feet because of the shock, and that two minutes had elapsed before she could open her eyes and keep them open.

The stinging sensation in her face and eyes lasted up to eight hours after the chemical was sprayed, she said.

She said she wanted the demonstration performed on her because of the charges that were being made against the chemical when it was first put into use.

When the time came for the demonstration, Mrs. Cobb said her "curiosity overcame her cowardice" and she went through with it.

Law enforcement officials do not look on the chemical as a means of handling riots or large mobs of people because of the limit on the number of persons that can be hit with one spray, Mrs. Cobb said.

She said it could be used most effectively in handling a single person who law enforcement officers consider dangerous or violent.

"I would rather take this (the chemical) instead of a club up against the head," she said.

Budget Tops Board Agenda

A proposed increase in membership dues will be discussed at a meeting of the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Margaret Franklin School.

Mrs. Ramona Peterson, executive secretary, said an increase in dues already has been recommended by the membership committee, budget committee and executive committee.

The board also will consider establishment of an operating budget.

Clairemont Celebrates With Parade

Clairemont's Seventh Annual Independence Day Parade Thursday will get underway at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Clairemont Quad shopping center.

Some 178 units will march north on Clairemont Drive to Ute Drive, a distance of about one mile.

The reviewing stand for the parade will be located on the east side of Clairemont Drive, directly north of Whittier School.

The parade is expected to last until about 3:30 p.m. after which a short patriotic ceremony will be held on the grounds of the South Clairemont Recreation Center, 3605 Clairemont Drive.

Following the ceremony and running until 9 p.m. will be an afternoon of entertainment, game booths, and food stands. A 30-minute fireworks display will end the celebration at 9 p.m.

Libraries Close

The San Diego Public Library and all branch libraries will be closed Thursday, July 4, in honor of Independence Day. The libraries will be open on Friday, July 5, for their usual schedules.

Over-the-Line Lives Again!

This year's "over-the-line" tournament in Mission Bay will be more organized than in previous times, according to Roger Chung, city aquatics superintendent.

The competition, open to the public, will be held all day July 6 and 7 on Mariner's Point. The city will provide the preparation of the area, parking, lifeguard service and police protection.

Mariners Point extends from Bonita Cove down through the channel. The west side of Mariner's Basin is Mission Point which is directly across from Quivera Point.

Those wishing to watch or join in the fun should turn off from West Mission Bay Drive on the ocean side of Ventura Bridge. There will be ample parking in the area.

Chung said that previous games have been on a "very informal basis. This year things are going to be much better organized."

Preparations for the game will include the sifting of sand in the area, the removal of rocks and the installation of a public address system. All of this will be managed by the city.

Chung said that arrangements have been made for police protection in the area, but no unusual numbers of officers will be required at the scene. The police will regulate the flow of traffic into the game area.

Mike Curran, a local resident who has organized "over-the-line" games in the past, will again be in charge of arrangements. The public is free to enter teams in the tournament.

New Administrative Appointments Announced By School District

DR. RALPH PATRICK

KENNETH HALE

Nine additional administrative appointments, involving both transfers and promotions, were approved Thursday by the Board of Education as the San Diego City Schools continued to "tool up" administratively for the opening of the new school year next September. The board acted on recommendations by Superintendent Ralph Dailard.

Two of the appointments filled top administrative positions within the school district's recently-approved and federally funded Inner City Project, which will provide an enriched program for a group of south-central San Diego area schools.

Norman W. Houser, principlay at Mission Bay High School from Sept. 1957 to June 1962 and currently specialist in secondary education in the Curriculum Services Division, was named Inner City Project director, effective tomorrow. Ernest E. Hartzog, who has been project coordinator for the Neighborhood Youth Corps project in the Student Services Division, was appointed as an additional vice principal at San Diego High under Inner City Project funding.

Earlier this summer the board approved appointment of Harry B. Ohlson, former principal of Sherman Elementary School, as assistant director of the project.

The Inner City Project schools—constituting in effect a separate school system within the school district — are San Diego High, Memorial Junior High, and Burbank, Crockett, Logan, Lowell and Sherman Elementary schools, all feeding into Memorial. The schools, chosen as a group, include concentrations of both Negro and Mexican-American pupils.

Houser's transfer created a chain-reaction list of new assignments as follow: Dr. Ralph Patrick from principal, Clairemont High, to specialist, secondary education, succeeding Houser; Kenneth G. Hale from principal, Mann Junior High, to principal, Clairemont High, succeeding Dr. Patrick; and Edward C. Casebolt, Jr., from vice principal of Mann Junior High, succeeding Hale.

In another chain-reaction series, William G. Burrows, a former San Diego High vice principal appointed only a month ago as principal of Snyder Continuation High, was named principal of Gompers Junior High; Duane C. Maley, vice principal at Crowford High, was promoted to principal of Snyder; and Leonard Sherr, vice principal of Pershing Junior High, was appointed vice principal at Crawford, succeeding Maley.

In the final administrative change, Mrs. Margaret H. Demaray was promoted from librarian to cataloguing librarian in the Audio-Visual Distribution Center library.

Dr. Largent Appointed To VP's Position

Dr. Frank D. Largent of Sacramento, prominent national educator and administrator, has been appointed vice president and director of research for Educational Marketing and Research, Inc. of La Jolla, according to company president Darrel P. Simpson.

Dr. Largent is formerly chief of the Bureau of National Defense Education Act (NDEA) Administration for the California State Department of Education in Sacramento. He will assume the newly-created position tomorrow, according to Simpson.

Educational Marketing and Research, Inc., international leasing firm for supplemental and remedial reading books and related instructional materials, serves elementary and secondary school districts throughout the United States and several foreign countries.

Library

Scripps Elementary School library will be open Wednesdays from 1-2 p.m. until Aug. 7.

Queen Contest Entries Sought

Cabrillo Heights Naval Housing will hold a beauty contest July 20 at 1 p.m. to select a "Miss Cabrillo Heights" at the Naval playground on Afton Road.

Mrs. Leona Hewitt, contest chairman, said entrants must live in the housing and must be between the ages of 14 and 17. Five judges have been selected for the contest.

Further information on entering the contest is available by calling Mrs. Hewitt at 278-5231.

Investigation Underway On Plane Crash

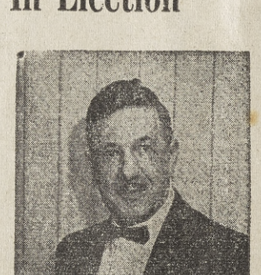
Miramar Naval Air Station officials are investigating the crash Thursday of a plane piloted by a 25-year-old fighter squadron lieutenant which went down two miles east of Highway 395.

The pilot, Lt. Craig M. Taylor, was killed in the crash. He is survived by his widow, Frances, and a six-month-old son.

Taylor was piloting an F8C Crusader jet and was on his final approach to the Miramar runway when the crash occurred. Officials said Taylor notified the control tower shortly before the crash that he was having mechanical difficulties with his plane.

The pilot was attached to Fighter Squadron 111 based at Miramar. He was a veteran of the Vietnam war and was shot down and rescued during a combat mission there, according to Miramar investigators.

Tasch Named Grand Knight In Election



GEORGE A. TASCH

George A. Tasch will assume the office of Charter Grand Knight, Point Loma Council, Knights of Columbus, following election of officers last week.

Other officers to hold office for the 1968-69 fiscal year are Edward J. Hawkins, deputy grand knight; Frank Amitrano, chancellor; George Malloy, warden; James D. Ponton recording secretary; Robert D. Dover treasurer; Edward D. Mulrooney advocate.

Robert C. Fiero and Richard E. Hiatt, guards; John E. Mulrooney, Lambert J. Nineteman and Frank J. Fillipone will serve as trustees. The Rev. Francis Rigney has accepted appointment as chaplain and Charles E. Huss has been appointed financial secretary by the supreme office in New Haven, Conn.

The operator of the Left Bank nightclub and four of his performers were sentenced for lewd conduct and ordered to register as sex offenders by Municipal Court Judge J. Robert O'Conner Friday.

O'Conner said he would grant a new trial for a second conviction of indecent exposure. He imposed 90-day jail terms and $500 fines on all defendants. He later suspended the terms and lowered the fines.

Sentenced were James W. Morgan, operator of the Left Bank, 2022 Grand Ave.; Michele Marie D'Arcel, 30, of 2075½ Balboa Ave.; Kathryn Jo Kirkland, 42, of the same address; Hedy Diana Henrie, 23, of 1465 Grand Ave., and Janna Lee Harris, 34, of 7074 Mohawk St.

The four dancers have filed petitions in superior court asking that city officials be ordered to reinstate their city permits which they lost because of the case.

A notice of appeal has been filed by Peter B. Clarke, defense attorney. O'Connor suspended the payment of fines until after the appeal. The chargers came from a series of 27 vice squad investigations.

City Atty. Ed Butler asked O'Connor to impose stricter sentences.

Teen Post Looking For New Assistant

The Linda Vista Youth for Progress has announced an opening for a salaried neighborhood youth center assistant to work in the Linda Vista Teen Post.

Applications for the permanent position are now being accepted at the Linda Vista Community Action Council, 2338 Linda Vista Plaza, and the Neighborhood Service Center, 6860 Linda Vista Rd.

Under supervision of the Youth Center director, the assistant will provide leadership to youths involved in various recreational and educational programs. He will also recruit youths to take part in center activities and seek out resources to benefit the center.

Applicants for the position must have the ability to work effectively with young adults, must be at least 18 years of age and must live in Linda Vista or the surrounding neighborhood. Deadline for applications is next Friday.

The assistant director will be paid a salary of $61.25 per week at a rate of $1.75 an hour. He will work approximately 35 hours per week.

Two Receive Postdoctoral Cancer Grants

Two new postdoctoral research grants totaling $92,661 rave been awarded by the American Cancer Society to scientists in La Jolla.

Dr. Silvio S. Varon, associate professor in the department of biology, UCSD School of Medicine received a two-year grant of $74,000. He plans to study crest cells in human tumors.

Dr. Varon was named to his present post as associate professor in July 1967.

Robert A. Shleser, Ph.D., received $18,661 for work at the Salk Institute for Biological Studies here. He plans to study the primary tumor of bone marrow that produces an antibody.

Dr. Shleser did some work for a period of eight months at the Scripps Clinic in La Jolla and the Department of Eperimental Pathology.

Sixteen other new American Cancer grants, amounting to $668,086, were granted to California institutions. This is the largest group of cancer research grants ever awarded in this state by the Society.

DaVinci Film Will Be Shown At Sherwood

"Leonardo da Vinci," an hour-long color film on the Renaissance genius, will have its first showing in this country Thursday, July 11 at 8 p.m. in Sherwood Hall.

The showing is sponsored by La Jolla Museum of Art as the first of a two-part summer film program.

Dr. Jacob Bronowski, senior fellow at the Salk Institute, will introduce the film. The documentary was written by Dr. Bronowski at the request of the British Broadcasting Company. Bronowski also appears in the film.

"Leonardo da Vinci" uses drawings, paintings, sketches and models by the artist to depict da Vinci's extraordinary modern insight into scientific forms and principals. It includes working models of the artist's helicopter, printing press and flying machines filmed at the Leonardo Museum in Milan.

Robert Martin Attends Camp

Robert S. Martin, son of Major (U.S. Army, Ret.) and Mrs. Spencer O. Martin, 4125 Edison St., a student at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, is attending Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps summer camp.

The course began June 16 at the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga., and includes instructions in physical conditioning, leadership, rifle marksmanship and taking part in field exercises. Upon successful completion of summer camp and graduation from college, he is eligible to be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army. Cadet Martin is a 1966 graduate of Clairemont High School.

Belmont Park Plans Display Of Fireworks

Belmont Amusement Park in Mission Beach will present its annual spectacular fireworks display on Thursday, July 4, at 10 p.m. The public is invited and there is no charge to enter the park or to watch the aerial pyrotechnics.

Robert Ray, general manager, pointed out that there were free picnic tables to seat 2,000 persons and made the suggestion that a family outing would be a pleasant way to spend the holiday that would climax with the fireworks display.

With 18 adult rides and 11 kiddie rides Belmont Amusement Park has more rides than at any time since the park was opened, Ray said. Food and refreshment outlets have also been increased.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By DOCTOR JOHN J. FLYNN
Doctor of Chiropractic

Q—I'm 58 and I've just retired early because of a heart condition. I've read your column and I'd like to know if a spinal problem can cause heart trouble?

A — Heart trouble is, as I'm sure you know, the nation's number one health problem. It affects people of all ages and in all walks of life. Your heart is strictly a muscular structure. When it contracts, it puts pressure on the blood that's contained in its cavity. This pressure forces the blood out into the great vessels attached to the heart. The heart contracts about 72 times per minute and, as you can imagine, this pumps great quantities of blood through your system. The heart functions in a constant cycle — purified blood in from the lungs for redistribution back out through your body. And, it's the nerve system with its constant supply of nerve energy that controls heart function. Any interference with this nerve energy supply will directly affect your heart. A vertebrae out of alignment on your spinal column can pinch off a vital nerve that supplies the heart. This interference will eventually cause serious problems both in heart function and in its metabolism. Have a spinal x-ray taken to be sure that nerve blockage is not contributing to your heart problem. My office makes no charge for x-rays or examinations. Just call for a convenient appointment.

CAN'T SLEEP

Q—I've been taking tranquilizers to get to sleep. I know it's not right, but it works. Do you think there's something wrong with me that causes this sleeplessness?

A — First off, I'd be very cereful of tranquilizers. Improper use can cause everything from muscular weakness and incoordination to nausea and allergic reactions. You're not taking simple aspirin. There's obviously something wrong if you can't sleep. Minor backache or some other physical disability may be just enough of an irritant to prevent sound sleep. Over-anxiety or excessive nervousness may also be contributing to your sleeplessness. I'd have a Chiropractic checkup to make sure that nerve interference in the spine is not depriving a part of your body of its normal nerve energy, causing a condition of stress.

CHIROPRACTIC SPECIALIST

Q—How come you always think Chiropractic will solve all health problems?

A — Chiropractic care can "catch" a pinched or damaged nerve on your spinal column and correct this condition before it deteriorates into a serious health problem. If nerve blockage caused by a displaced vertebrae is not corrected — in time, as unfortunately is so often the case, surgery is the only answer. A Chiropractor is a specialist in spinal problems. There are many other medical and surgical specialists that make up the total health care profession. Just remember, Chiropractic first, medicine second, and surgery last.

Patrol Offers Holiday Advice

"Drive like you would if there was a California Highway Patrol car following along behind you."

This was the advice given today by CHP Captain Roland Gautsche on the eve of the four-day Fourth of July holiday weekend.

"I'm just asking that drivers obey the traffic laws this weekend, particularly in regard to speed, yielding the right of way to the other driver, and staying on the right side of the road.

"These are major rules of the road that, when broken, lead to accdents. Besides, if a driver consciously makes an effort to obey these laws he is not likely to violate any others, and his chances of getting into an accident-causing situation are reduced."

Capt. Gausche emphasized that accidents do not happen only to persons who are taking a long trip during the weekend.

"In most cases, the people involved are less than 25 miles from home, and on roadways they are well acquainted with," he said.

Fluoridation Drive Gains

One-half of the required number of petition signatures necessary to place the fluoridation proposal on the November ballot has been obtained according to Earl Norton, DDS, Co-Chairman of the County Dental Society's Special Committee on Fluoridation.

Norton reported that 5,316 signatures have been added during the past week to bring the total in excess of 15,000. The fluoridation proponents have set 30,000 signatures of registered San Diego City voters as the goal for July 20. Ten per cent of the qualified voters of the city is required to bring the proposal to a vote in order to raise the natural fluoride level of San Diego's water supply to accepted standards.

San Diego's drinking water presently contains one-third to one-half the standard amount of natural fluorides for effective tooth-decay prevention, according to Adrian de la Torre, DDS, Co-Chairman of the Special Committee on Fluoridation of the County Dental Society. The standard set by 3,000 other cities and communities in the nation is one part of fluoride to one million parts of water. In this proportion, fluoridation has reduced children's tooth decay as much as 65 per cent. Benefits to adults have resulted in strengthening the bone structure and in preventing bone curvature.

De la Torre said that fluoridation of the city's drinking water would enable all children to benefit from reduced tooth decay. This would be reflected in a reduction of welfare funds which the county is required to spend on dental care of those on welfare rolls. Families in the lower economic range who cannot afford to buy bottled fluoridated water will not be denied the benefits of fluoridation, which has been in public use for more than 20 years and has proven to be the most effective, safe and widely accepted means of extending public dental health care.

Police Warn Motorists About Illegal Lights

Many Californians are driving cars with illegal lights, not knowing they are violating the law.

"Most of the illegal lights are on sports cars, and are not part of the original equipment," according to Captain Roland Gautsche of the California Highway Patrol.

"Mail purchases account for most of these illegal driving and fog lamps, but some are on cars being sold as used vehicles or on cars originally registered in another state."

Some of the lights are illegal because they are designed for racing and, therefore, have a higher light output than is allowed by California law on passenger cars. Others are manufactured to European standards, which are different from American standards.

"Driving or fog lights bought from established dealers in California will probably be legal because parts suppliers know how to determine that their lights meet regulations," Captain Gautsche said. "If you think the lights on your car may be illegal, come in to the Patrol office and we will check them out."

McKinnon's ODYSSEY

Santa Rosalia, Baja, Calif. (Aboard the Tennie C.) — After the past two days, Chuck Hawkins, Sentinel's pressroom foreman and my sole crewman on our cruise to La Paz, and I know why so many of those Spanish explorers of the Gulf never made it back.

We have just made it through a sudden and violent storm that had us reeling.

We left Bahia Los Angeles at 6:30 a.m. after taking on 106 gallons of gasoline (at 50 cents per) and 16 gallons of sparkling mountain water and rode the tide down Sal si Puedes channel into San Francisquito Bay. We slipped through a narrow passage into a landlocked cove and dropped our hook in nine feet of clear, green water.

Here we found the only ghost town on our entire trip. Obviously, it was once a thriving little community with oyster shucking as the principal industry. Thousands of shells lined the beach and the skeletons of large fish were everywhere. Close by was the ruins of a hacienda and just a few steps beyond was a rusted-out tractor-trailer. How a big thing like that ever made it over the torturous road from the north is still a mystery to us.

But now San Francisquito is deserted, the only thing of enterprise being a weather-beaten sign pointing down some wind-seared ruts that faded into the distance, and announcing "gasolina". Fortunately, we didn't need any, for there was no indication of how far away it was. At least, no habitation was in sight.

As with Refugio, a few days before, we felt a million miles from the nearest human being and, in truth, if we had been in trouble, we would have been days away from help.

This is one of the striking characteristics of the Gulf. Both the land and the water are very lonely. There are a number of small skiffs to be seen in the vicinity of settlements but they don't venture far. In certain parts of the Gulf, you will find some Mexican fishing boats. But otherwise there are long stretches of water bounded by inhospitable shores. Pleasure boats such as ours are rare. In fact, we didn't sight a pleasure boat longer than 20 feet until we were over 250 miles south of San Felipe.

There's no peace in this world that surpasses a snug anchorage on a comfortable boat. That night, the stars in all their southern glory hung out the welcome sign, the water lapped our hull like a Schuman lullaby, and we slept like it was our last night of peace and contentment.

Lingered Too Long

We lingered too long next morning in this delightful spot. The time for cruising in the Gulf is early in the morning. By noon, during our trip, the wind was usually strong and the sea a little angry.

By the time we had rounded Point Teresa, a few miles to the south, it became evident that this was not a day for a 27-foot boat.

We looked ahead to Point Miguel, about 13 miles distance, and figured that once we rounded that bold bluff, the going would be easier.

We slugged along for two hours, taking green sheets of water over the flying bridge. It was too late to don rough weather gear but we did edge into our life jackets, and felt a little more secure.

Rounding San Miguel, we faced 12 miles of open water: angry, confused, and altogether too rough for a small boat. Miguel is strewn with detached rocks and hidden reefs and we were not at all certain that we could find an anchorage in its lee. But this was our only alternative.

Cautiously, we ventured into land, with Chuck at the wheel and me on the bow, looking for sudden unexposed reefs. Our faithful little depth-finder kept reassuring us with bright winks and seemed to be the only friend in an uncertain world.

We found a sandy bottom within 40 feet of shore, somewhat protected from the howling wind, but threatened from both sides by the jagged teeth of extended reefs.

The anchor held but the boat worked back and forth in the wind and sea, now close to one snarling reef and then back towards the other.

By sunset we knew we had a secure anchorage but an uncomfortable one. Dinner was a sad affair and sleep for both of us at the same time was out of the question. So we alternated watches with two hours on and two hours sleep, and the rough cold night inched along.

The only cheer was Shorty Trim, the retired Anglo who lived in Guaymas and made an avocation of gathering weather information and passing it along to strays like us.

By radio, he advised us to stay where we were until the storm blew out.

"Before you get to Santa Rosalia, you'll have to round Cape Virgenes, and that's plenty tough in rough weather," he reported. "Quite a few guys have lost their boats trying."

Said A Prayer

Then he added: "I'll be standing by in case you get into trouble!" A hundred miles away! But we said a prayer that night for Shorty . . . and ourselves!

A dull, red, uncertain sun poked its head over the point next morning and a new day, with somewhat rising spirits, flashed over the Tennie C. and her crew.

Bay San Carlos, on whose northern edge we were perched, is a big stretch of open water. Bob Jackson, our newly found friend of Bahia Los Angeles, had marked an anchorage on our chart about half way down, so we decided to make a run for it, since the wind had abated somewhat. And we were not comfortable with the grasping reefs!

We hugged the shoreline but the harbor Jackson had marked escaped us. By noonday, we had covered the bay's shoreline and were approaching Cape Virgenes that forms the southern boundary, and about which Shorty Trim had warned us.

The wind had strengthened, as usual, by midday and the sea was high and running wild.

Despite the warnings of Shorty, there seemed nothing left to do but don our life jackets once again and make a run for it. Once around Virgenes, it's a clear shot for Santa Rosalia, about 15 miles distant.

Promised Land

Around the point, we made out the smudge of smoke from the smelter at Santa Rosalia. Fifteen miles doesn't sound far, unless you are in a small boat standing on one end and then the other. The wind had shifted to our rear and with motors idling we practically surfboarded into Santa Rosalia about three hours later.

There were times, however, when Chuck and I thought that if we could ever put our feet on dry land again we'd never leave!

Santa Rosalia has a man-made harbor which is black and dirty as sin. But as we made the turn into the channel and sighted the docks, it looked better than the Promised Land ever looked to Moses!

Next week: A town that once faced death and whose charm is not spoiled by tourists.

Letters to Editor

EDITOR:

In all the critical letters your paper received about the confrontation between Editor David Lewis and the San Diego Police, I was disturbed and mystified by the fact that all your critics and even your supporters too, seemingly ignored the fact that the locale was public domain and the Ford Motor Company had no right to privacy therefore.

If they wanted to photograph their products against some bizarre or dramatic background they should have either held their commercial melodrama on private property or secured the proper insurance of privacy during the occupancy of public domain.

Mr. Lewis was entirely within his Constitutional rights as an American Citizen in his pursuit of happiness in the form of photography ON PUBLIC LAND, where no legal prohibitions were posted.

I think the most inconsiderate and stupid of the letters you received was the one signed "A Policeman's Wife." She thinks the Ford Motor Company has some sort of squatter's rights on public land and she really goes overboard when she implies that a police officer was justified in the illegal detention of a citizen while he frantically thumbed through the rule book to find some justification for his incompetence and poor judgment.

I did not get the impression from your article that you were indicting the San Diego Police Department — I have a lot of respect for our law officers but the airing of this matter is in the best American tradition.

I wrote a letter to Councillady Helen Cobb inquiring into the matter. I asked her if your Sentinel was overzealous in sensationalism or if the reported facts were justified. She replied by saying the matter had been investigated; the officers involved had been reprimanded for poor judgment, and she further assured me that any future incidents of this nature would warrant the attention of our elected officials.

B.R.C.

EDITOR:

The news item regarding Ford Motor Company using a San Diego beach to take photos of their new model cars could have been handled so differently.

It turned out to be just a gloating account of an encounter with police officers who were trying not to stop you from exercising your rights, but to stop you from committing piracy.

The next time the reporter writes exhorting us all to be good I'm not going to believe him because it came through all too clear that he had an exhilarating time baiting the police.

MRS. D.M.J.

EDITOR:

I found your "Reader's Views" of the police and their protection of the Ford Motor Car quite interesting.

People really are funny! Why is it that those who disagree with your Constitutional right to exercise free speech decide never to read your paper again and cancel their subscription?

They really are confused. They don't like you for smirching their police force (and you really did, didn't you?), so they want to punish you for telling them a truth.

Right or wrong, I respect and admire your courage to write the truth anytime you can and I hope you will always be able to do so. Thank you for the article; it made people think.

MRS. D.K.

P.S.: Please START a subscription to your brave paper!

EDITOR:

May I offer my support for your coverage of the Lewis-Ford fight with special attention to the fact that the referee was in there punching too.

It is unfortunate that some of your readers apparently do not recognize that rights and privileges are not the same — that putting a car on the cliffs is a privilege — that taking advertising pictures secretly is not even a privilege but strictly a gamble.

But that a citizen's right to walk on a public street or beach, unless he is a hazard to the public welfare (not the Ford Company's) is, or at least should be, unquestioned. Or do we have part-time rights?

Making enemies is easy for an executive in a new job. All he has to do is keep chanting, "Here's how we did it at my old company." In no time, his colleagues will be muttering ominously. So, be tactful on the new job, advises Dr. Mortimer Feinberg, well-known business psychologist.

Don't ask for a 21-gun welcome salute. It alienates your peers.

Don't raise embarrassing questions at meetings. The people you show up won't forgive or forget.

Don't bring in an all-new staff or threaten a shakeup. Hatchetmen die with a kinfe in the back.

Instead, cultivate someone close to the boss to find out what he likes. When you find out, give it to him, in spades.

Meet everyone. But spend most of your time wooing and winning key subordinates.

For many years a well-known law professor used to begin his freshman class by putting two figures on the blackboard: 4 and 2. "What's the solution?" he would ask the class. A student would call out "Six." Another would say "Two," but the professor would shake his head again and again, as a variety of solutions were offered. Eventually he would point out their error: "All of you failed to ask the question, 'What is the problem?' And, gentlemen, unless you first know what the problem is, you cannot possibly find the answer."

The professor was merely pointing out an unhappy fact of life; too many people spend too much time trying to solve the wrong problem.

Conservative View

The Rocky Road

By JAMES KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON—Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has turned into a tiger on the campaign trail, apparently is picking up a few Brownie points in his belated chase after Richard Nixon. Early in the week, pollsters found gains for the New York Governor in Ohio and Pennsylvania. The Evans-Novak team, working a Cleveland beat, turned up a few sparks for Rocky, but nothing to call an inferno.

KILPATRICK

The Governor's favorite pitch is the old reliable fast ball, hurled in tight: Nixon is a loser. Rockefeller is a winner. No Republicans can hope for the White House, says Mr. R., unless he can carry the electoral votes of the big Eastern and Midwestern States, plus California. The big States cannot be carried unless the big cities within them are carried. Here the Governor sighs a lugubrious sigh. Nixon just can't carry these cities.

Thus, we now have been reminded repeatedly that Nixon in 1960 was doing fine in New York State until the returns came in from New York City. He was carrying Pennsylvania until he got to Philadelphia. He was leading in Michigan until he hit Detroit. Rockefeller just happens to have the figures in his pocket. As a matter of fact, he has them in his head. Ask him.

But in recalling these unpleasant incidents, is the Governor being divisive? Is he violating his party's eleventh commandment, which forbids speaking ill of another Republican? The Governor reacts with an injured who—mee, boss? No, indeed. He is merely citing the record. He is only mentioning a few figures. He thinks it better for the convention to consider realities. And the realities, in the Rockefeller view, are that Nixon is a loser and Rocky a winner.

Well, two can play the numbers game. It is doubtful, to begin with, that anything very useful can be drawn from the experience of Nixon-Kennedy eight years ago in terms of Nixon-Humphrey or Nixon-McCarthy come November. Even so, it is worth recalling that in the straight Democrat-Republican race in New York, Nixon actually ran ahead of John Kennedy; the loss came with the Liberal Party's vote for JFK. Nixon lost Pennsylvania in 1960 by 116,000 votes in five million cast; he lost Michigan by only 67,000 in 3.3 million cast. He lost Illinois by fewer than 8,000, and the probabilities are that 5,000 of these were crookedly counted. This is not an appalling record as background for a Nixon-Humphrey contest.

Meanwhile, what of the Rock? M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News, recently pulled together a few pertinent figures of his own. If Rockefeller is a "winner," he concluded, you can't prove it by Rockefeller's record.

In 1958, Rockefeller polled 3,127,000 votes, or 53 per cent of the total, to win election in New York. Four years later he dropped to 3,082,000 and 51 per cent. In 1966, though he spent a fortune and campaigned frantically, the figures fell to 2,691,000 and 44 per cent. This is the pattern of a winner?

There is more. A Republican convention, urged to consider realities, will want to consider the reality of Rockefeller's coat-tail effect. A real winner ought to be able to carry others of his party into office with him, as Romney did in Michigan.

Evans looked for coat-tails and saw nothing but the seat of Rocky's pants. In 1956, before Rockefeller gained control of the Republican party in New York, the State had 26 Republicans and 17 Democrats in the House. After three Rockefeller terms, the delegation is composed of 26 Democrats and 15 Republicans. In 1966, New York Republicans, under Rockefeller's leadership, lost control of the State Assembly and barely held the State Senate. A study of 57 legislative districts found that Rockefeller actually ran behind the legislative candidates in 41 of them.

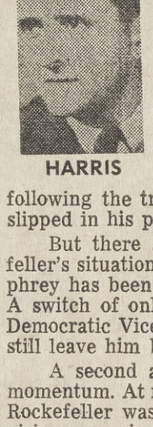
Would Rockefeller pull Republican candidates for Congress into office with him? It seems highly unlikely. It is Nixon, on the contrary, who demonstrated in the 1966 congressional campaigns that he can rally GOP organizations to the GOP cause. The records of Nixon's devoted labors just two years ago also count among the "realities" the convention will want to consider before it embarks upon the long and Rocky road.

Harris Poll

Polls Measure Reaction

By LOUIS HARRIS

Delegate counters and convention watchers continue to report that Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey have their respective party nominations all but sewed up. The only thing which might stop either man, most observers agree, is a precipitous drop in their individual standings in the national public opinion polls.



HARRIS

Richard Nixon has now encountered just such a poll decline. From a position of running nearly even against prospective Democratic opponents in April and early May, Nixon appears to be a heavy loser in the immediate period following the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy. He is now seven points behind Vice President Humphrey and eight points behind Sen. Eugene McCarthy, which translates into the order of five million votes.

Under normal circumstances, such a decline in Nixon strength would automatically enhance the chances of his arch-GOP rival, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But in the surge of pro-Democratic sentiment following the tragic death of Sen. Kennedy, Gov. Rockefeller has also slipped in his poll standing.

But there are two main differences between Nixon and Rockefeller's situations. First, the New York governor's decline against Humphrey has been marginal, while Nixon's has been close to precipitous. A switch of only two points could put Rockefeller all even with the Democratic Vice President. A comparable swing in Nixon's case would still leave him behind.

A second and perhaps even more significant element is that of momentum. At mid-June, when the latest Harris Survey was conducted, Rockefeller was in the early stages of a massive advertising and television campaign to take his case to the people. As the GOP underdog, Rockefeller had been free to go all out—with virtually nothing to lose. From all reports, Nixon had decided to play it safe, seeking to avoid engagement with Rockefeller, on the one hand, or committing a blunder, on the other.

The result on the Republican side is that Nixon is apt to come down to the Miami convention delegate-rich but poll-poor. If his standing in the national polls does not improve and Rockefeller gains two or three points, Nixon's seemingly sure nomination of only a few short weeks ago could be made vulnerable.

On the Democratic side, Sen. McCarthy is far behind in delegates, but is slightly stronger than Vice President Humphrey in the polls. For McCarthy to capitalize on his spurt as a result of the Kennedy assassination, however, Humphrey must show a decline. And at the moment, by any standards, the Vice President is running strong and well against both Nixon and Rockefeller.

The momentum in the Democratic contest is less clear. Humphrey can be expected to continue to pick up his string of delegates, aided to some extent by his poll showing against Republicans. McCarthy, off his strong run in New York and his new-found standing in the polls, has found new blood in his long run for the nomination. Since the Republican Convention will make its decision before the Democrats meet in Chicago, the relative standing of Humphrey or McCarthy against the eventual GOP choice could be an important factor.

To a large degree, whether Humphrey gains or loses in the polls from now until the Democratic National Convention is likely to determine whether he can nail down the nomination beyond any doubt. But this in turn might well hinge on the stance the Vice President takes. If he appears to be desperately holding onto what seems to many to be a sure thing, in an essentially defensive posture, his poll standing could drop, particularly against Rockefeller. If Humphrey can fill at least part of the vacuum created by the death of Sen. Kennedy, the odds would strongly favor his remaining ahead until the Chicago convention.

One key point must be made in any discussion of the impact of the polls on this year's nominations and election. The polls themselves are passive instruments. Poll results may influence the thinking of voters and poiticians, but a poll by itself cannot do anything.

The national public opinion polls, nevertheless, are the only systematic measurement of the reaction of the American people to the unexpected and cataclysmic events of 1968 as they have taken place. When people say the polls can be crucial, they should say that the response and wishes of the voters themselves are pivotal.

The Real Washington

By DON MACLEAN

WASHINGTON—Ordinarily, I would not trouble you with an article regarding our mayor, since he is a local problem and cannot affect your life in the slightest (unless you should be so unfortunate as to visit here soon.)

However, this IS the capital city of the nation — or it was back when reasonable people were in charge — and our mayor was appointed by President Johnson. Therefore, perhaps a review of the mayor's recent activities is not without some national interest.

MACLEAN

As even the most casual of newspaper readers and the most dullwitted of TV viewers know, there is no small amount of crime in this city, not to mention riots and demonstrations. But Mayor Walter Washington won't admit this; he's telling prospective tourists this is a fun place to visit!

While he has failed to convince even suburbanites here that they should come downtown and shop (business has fallen off dreadfully), the mayor is still painting a rosy picture for out-of-towners and would-be conventioneers. Obviously, he thinks he can fool them, since they can't know as much about the true situation as local citizens do.

On a recent afternoon Mayor Washington told a group of visiting writers and broadcasters — some perhaps from your area — that Congressmen were playing up the "alleged lack of law and order here" just for something stirring to say in speeches back home.

The Washington crime situation has been "blown out of proportion," said the mayor. He then introduced the president of our local hotel association, who told the writers and broadcasters that the April

EDITOR:

My first reaction to the Sentinel article about the Ford pictures was hurrah for that photographer!

However, after reading the pro and con letters in Sunday's paper, I was thoroughly disgusted. Both sides completely missed the point in question.

Put yourself in the officer's shoes. He was obviously sent out there with orders to prevent people from taking pictures. Now, what would you do if you were him?

Put yourself in the photographer's shoes. What would your reaction be if the police would not allow you to take pictures in a public place?

The real point is, by what right can the city contract with Ford Motor Company to send uniformed policemen to enforce privacy for a privileged few in a public place? This question should irk all citizens.

What was really disgusting to me were those who wrote in about police high-handedness on the part of an officer who was merely carrying out his orders.

I wish some of you who holler about the police force could spend an evening at police headquarters, or even better, ride in a patrol car some night and become aware of what every officer must contend with in dealing with the public. I feel sure that a lot of you would change your tune.

I only hope that whoever was responsible for this fiasco, namely the person responsible for the contract between the city and Ford, is called to an accounting.

In closing, I would like to say thanks for the outstanding and efficient police force which has made San Diego a fine place to live.

Thanks also to a fine newspaper which is willing to take a stand on a controversial issue.

K.R.J.

EDITOR:

I want to add my opinion to the many you have already received about the police who in the opinion of the Sentinel overstepped his authority. Where does a police officer's authority begin and stop?

A man appears in an area that is under police supervision and is asked to vacate the area. He certainly had his reasons for the request or he wouldn't have expressed it.

A car was on the beach. Was it a car where a murder had been committed, or where a child had been harmed?

Your reporter did not know. He only wanted to exert his Freedom of the Press, by refusing to identify himself or moving on as requested, he was very much out of order.

In my opinion he put himself in the same class as the rioters in our cities who refused to obey a police request or order.

You have done a great deal to instill in the minds of our young people that they have no need to respect law and order.

Should the time ever occur when you are in dire need of police protection, I hope that they don't stop to ponder whether or not it is worth a reprimand to go to your assistance while you may be beaten or robbed.

riots, for instance, involved the destruction of "only a few blocks in the ghetto area." (Actually, 640 buildings, in widely separated sections of the city were badly damaged or destroyed. Looting occurred ony three blocks from the White House! And arson continues nightly.)

On the same day the mayor's remarks were quoted in the paper, Milton Anthopoulis, a visitor from New York City, was beaten by four men and robbed of $7,000 while walking near Capitol Hill. The mayor should tell Milton Anthopoulis that tourists need not be afraid to visit Washington.

Robert L. McQueen, of Fayetteville, N.C., while walking downtown, was robbed at knifepoint by two men. He lost $197. Oddly enough, Mr. McQueen now thinks Washington isn't safe for tourists. On this same day we had the usual knifings, burglaries, purse-snatchings — and one murder.

When Boeing lost out to Lockheed, McDonnell Douglas, General Electric and Britain's Rolls-Royce in the battle to build the new airliner concept called the airbus, there was conjecture as to whether Boeing domination of the commercial jet-aircraft industry was ended. FORTUNE for June tells how Boeing is overcoming very nicely, thank you.

Martin Luther King Jr.'s last full-length book "Where De We Go From Here: Chaos or Community?" is now in paperback form and tells of his thoughts, plans and dreams for the future of America, and has a special introduction by his wife, Coretta Scott King.

Another timely paperback is Don Pendleton's "Revolt!" which is timely and terrifying and predicts a racial explosion that may change the course of American history.

In a lighter vein, the life and illusions of a scoutmaster by Rice E. Cochran is warm and hilarious. "It's enough to make a reviewer hunt up his old scoutmaster and ask for another go at that Tenderfoot test."—New York Times.

"The Kennedy Women" their triumphs and tragedies by Robert Curran in paperback is fully illustrated with 30 pages of photographs. This is the personal story of each of the great women of the Kennedy family whose extraordinary vitality, intelligence and charm have served to put them in an unparalleled position of power and prominence throughout the world.

How about the aching back that comes with boating? YACHTING for June tells how to put yourself "into commission" to be fit for your boat, especially when you are not the athletic type to begin with, or over 40.

RAMPART'S June 29th edition has an interview with "Danny the Red". The French student revolt surprised everyone. Misuse Of Fireworks Can Cause Blindness

"Unsupervised fireworks displays are a menace to the sight and safety of youngsters throughout the United States", says the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

After every Fourth of July, the Southern California Society for the Prevention of Blindness receives reports of young eyes damaged and even blinded by fireworks accidents.

Because laws controlling the sale of fireworks in California vary from one municipality to the other, parents are urged to use their influence to protect their children's eyes and sometimes even their lives by applying the following preventive measures:

1) Don't allow children to buy fireworks through the mail or from illicit dealers;

2) Help children to realize that fireworks are dangerous;

3) Don't buy or use fireworks yourself;

4) Take your family to a public fireworks display where they can enjoy the show in safety.

Family Service Elects New Board Members

The Family Service Assn. of San Diego elected new officers of the Board of Directors at the agency's monthly meeting held this week.

Mrs. John Stewart was elected president to succeed Charles F. McCabe, who completed two terms as president, was appointment chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee reviewing applicants for the position of executive director. Nevin Wiley, Family Service director since 1945, has resigned effective June, 1969.

Other officers elected to three year terms are: Thomas O. McJunkins, vice president; Gayle Anderson, treasurer; and Mrs. Martin Chamberlain, secretary.

Mrs. Stewart introduced five new members of the Board of Directors who were elected by the association last month. They are: Ross Evans, Foodmaker, Inc.; Walter Kimble, Neighborhood Leadership Through Self Help; Guy Johnston, Southern California First National Bank; O. T. McWilliams, Probation Department; and Frank Saiz, Linda Vista Neighborhood Center.

Freedom Speakers Bureau Formed To Allow Youths To Speak Out

If truth were always obvious there might be no need for eloquence.

Junior Achievement has formed a Youth Freedom Speakers Bureau. Buzzing with activity and sincere interest, a growing number of young people are beginning to ready themselves to speak out for Freedom in San Diego.

Youth Freedom Speakers Bureaus are being formed in many parts of the country today. As such, they are not tied to any political party, are non-partisan, non-sectarian. They were begun and are rapidly becoming enlarged and spread by interested men and women who believe in the principals upon which our nation was founded.

Meetings are held weekly each Wednesday evening at the Junior Achievement Center, 3729 University Ave. from 6:30 to 9 p.m. It is here that a growing number which now can be counted in excess of 20 teenage boys and girls from both the high schools and colleges meet with their adult counsellors and speech coaches.

Under the direction of the Executive Director of Junior Achievement, Edward Peterson, Jr., a member of the International Platform Association with a long career as a speaker in the United States and Far East and a select group of Toastmasters, the Junior Achievement Youth Freedom Speakers accept young volunteers who wish to become speakers; assist themselves in being prepared to speak effectively and forcefully and eventually occupying a stage or podium alone.

Continuous contact will be maintained with patriotic groups, churches, civic clubs, such as Jaycees, Rotary, Kiwanis Altrusa Business and Professional Women, Optimist, Lions and other organizations holding meetings; offering to furnish inspiring young speakers to make a three minute talk as an addition to their regular programs at no cost. All such invitations for these young speakers will be coordinated by the Counsellors at the Junior Achievement Center by calling 284-9271, who will then assure availability of the speakers.

All interested youths between the ages of 15-23 are cordially invited to join the Junior Achievement Youth Freedom Speakers by contacting one of the already participating speakers, or by attending the meetings.

Even though you have never spoken a word before a group in your lifetime, any boy or girl can be trained to speak and effectively so within a short span of a month.

Miss Alicia Jimenez has joined the Family Service counseling staff. She is a native of Colombia and a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

Society Warns Sun Bathers About Cancer

As sun-worshippers gather on the beaches to take part in their annual ritual the American Cancer Society warns that over-exposure to the sun can cause skin cancer.

It is not being out in the sun that's harmful, it's being out too long and too often without taking adequate precautions that can lead to trouble. The American Cancer Society recommends that anyone who spends much time in the sun follow these simple rules—wear a wide brimmed hat to shade the face and adequate clothing to cover the body.

Sun bathing in moderation is good for health, however some 5,000 deaths will occur in the United States from skin cancer this year.

Skin cancer is so preventable and so easy to detect when it occurs. Make a prompt visit to your doctor if you have a sore lasting more than two weeks.

Additional information for the best fun in the sun is available by contacting any office of the Society.

Real Estate Group Awards $500 Scholarship

Lloyd V. Hill, a graduate student at San Diego State College, was awarded a 500 scholarship by the California Real Estate Association Scholarship Foundation at a recent meeting of the CREA Board of Directors in San Diego June 22.

The cash award and plaque were presented by John Cotton of San Diego, member of the Foundation's board of trustees, in memory of the late Glenn D. Willaman, CREA state secretary for many years.

Hill attended Point Loma High School in San Diego, and San Diego City College before graduating this June from San Diego State College. At San Diego State he was on the dean's list for two semesters.

On completion of work on a Master's Degree, he expects to go into real estate, preferably specializing in income property. He comments: "I presently have a tremendous interest in property valuation and intend to write my Master's thesis on that subject."

Since the Foundation was established in 1946 to help deserving students who plan real estate careers, it has awarded over $24,000 to 61 students.

A Seat In The Dark

By DAVID E. GREGSON

The Bolshoi's "Swan Lake" is much better than the Leningrad-Kirov's. That according to Maris Liepa—speaking at a party following Wednesday's final Bolshoi appearance in Civic Theater.

Liepa, one of the Russian company's principal soloists, spoke freely between enormous helpings of pepper-beef stew, noodles, French bread and green salad.

"No, no, no. I do not say that just because I am with the Bolshoi," pleaded Liepa protesting the smiling accusations of "chauvinist" expressed in the eyes of Americans sitting around the table. "I have been with the Kirov also. I think the Bolshoi 'Swan Lake' is much more exciting. The Kirov is more elegant."

Unfortunately, judging by the Tuesday evening presentation of "Swan Lake Act II," the Bolshoi's version isn't even in the running. The dancers, exhausted by their whirlwind tour of the United States, went through the motions with an evident lack of enthusiasm.

The ballet corps was shockingly sloppy. Adding to the misfortune was the choreography by Alexander Gorsky, revised by Alexander Radunsky and Asaf Messerer. To many observers, the Petipa-Ivanov version used by the Leningrad-Kirov is far superior. It has been presented in California during two separate tours. The Petipa version, of course, is the 1895 original. It is odd that the Bolshoi should prefer Gorsky's 1901 revision.

A modern revision of the Petipa-Ivanov ballet has been made by David Blair of Britain's Royal Ballet and has been performed by The American Theater Ballet. This version seems more vital by far than the Bolshoi version.

There is little question that the Bolshoi is one of the greatest ballet companies on earth, but to rate the Bolshoi at the top of the "Top Five" is to exclude any consideration other than that of dancing. The repertoire is incredibly conservative, the set and costume designs are appalling and the theatrical "styles" tend towards total banality.

The Bolshoi is a historical monument of hokum. It is also the home of dancers whose technique and artistry defy description. They are among the most brilliant performers alive.

Liepa looked very little like one of these fabulous artists as he pushed away his plate, leaned back and lit a Marlboro. He looked more like a self-satisfied car salesman. It was his performance of "Le Spectre de la Rose" Tuesday that began to lift spirits immediately after the unimpressive "Swan Lake." "I have worked on that ballet for 10 years," said Liepa. "It is my own. I staged it. But Sol Hurok was afraid Americans would not accept it. The role is associated with the great Nijinsky."

"Le Spectre de lo Rose" was followed by the Grand Pas de Deux from Act III of "Sleeping Beauty." In this Maya Plisetskaya achieved utter perfection. She was partnered by Nicolai Fadeyechev whose phenominal relaxation during the variations was really ineffable.

Plisetskaya also appeared as "The Dying Swan," a dance all her own. Wednesday's audience was delighted when it was learned Plisetskaya would repeat the performance which left Tuesday's audience cheering. Both audiences also got to see Irina Prokofieva's superb performance in "Memories" to music of Dvorak.

"The Ballet School," especially prepared for American audiences, took Tuesday's spectators over the brink of excitement. This work begins with rudimentary steps and progresses to phenominal pyrotechnics.

But Wednesday's audience was not cheated. Shamil Yagudin ("Taras Bulba") and Yuri Vladimirov ("Flames of Paris") performed aerial feats that stagger the imagination. Other superb moments were Liudmilla Shivalova and Gennardi Leddiakh in "Spring Waters"; Yelena Riabinkina and Vladimir Romanenko in "Raymonda—Adagio"; Irina Prokofieva and Alexei Zakalinsky in "Memories," and Stanislav Vlasov and Liudmilla Vlasova in "The Doves."

The company also performed "Chopiniana," the Bolshoi's version of "Les Sylphides." This is an interesting version and it was given with considerably more polish than "Swan Lake Act II" the night before.

Many ballet lovers, however, object being subjected to the same tried and true repertoire every time a great company comes to San Diego. Whose fault is it?

According to Liepa, "Mr. Hurok only wants what is good at the box office." Liepa said that the Bolshoi adds two or three new productions to its repertoire every year in Moscow. Many of these are new ballets as well as revivals of old ones. To find out how good or bad they are one must go to Russia.

At the same time, The Royal Ballet of England, the Danish Royal Ballet, the American Ballet Theater and even the Leningrad-Kirov have given new productions on their California tours.

Carillon Recital Will Feature Patriotic Air

Patriotic airs and malitary songs will be featured at the annual Independence Day carillon recital to be given by Paul Peery in Balboa Park July 4 at 1:30 p.m.

Starting with "America" and finishing with "America the Beautiful," the recital on the Ona May Lowe 100-bell carillon will feature the Marine Hymn, the official songs of the Air Force and Marines, "Anchor's Aweigh," and numbers by Dykes, Humperdinck and Luther.

Best audition points, according to Peery, are the Organ Pavilion and the grassy slops of Sixth Avenue above or below Laurel Street.

Japanese Squadron Plans Three Day Stay

The Japanese Maritime Self Defense Force Training Squadron (JMSDF) is scheduled to arrive in San Diego Wednesday at 9 a.m. and tie up at Broadway pier.

The three-day visit to San Diego is part of the unit's 1968 Annual Training Squadron Cruise. Rear Admiral Marshall E. Dornin, commandant, Eleventh Naval District, and Rear Admiral Sheldon H. Kinney, ommander, Cruiser-Destroyer Flotilla Eleven, are co-hosts of the squadron.

The public is invited to visit the four Japanese ships which will be opened Thursday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Rear Adm. Shushiro Okawa, commander of the JMSDF, will call on several local U.S. Navy admirals and Mayor Frank Curran. He will also visit two flag ships, USS Canberra and USS Oklahoma City, and several Naval bases.

Enlisted Japanese personnel will visit Sea World, the San Diego Zoo, Cabrillo Monument and other points of interest, while 160 newly commissioned ensigns and other officers will tour various San Diego Naval facilities.

Upon the arrival of the four Japanese destroyers in San Diego four American destroyers will act as individual ship hosts. The USS Gurke (DD-783) will host the JDS Akizuki (DD-161) while the USS John W. Thompson (DD1760) will host the JDS Harusame (DD-109); USS Lyman K. Swenson (DD-729) will host the JDS Uranami (DD-105); and the USS Hamner (DD-718) the JDS Ayanami (DD-103) during the San Diego visit.

Wednesday evening Rear Admiral Okawa will be the guest of honor at a reception hosted by Admiral and Mrs. Dornin in their home, and the officers of the JMSDF will attend an officers' wardroom cocktail party hosted by Rear Admiral Kinney.

Thursday beginning at noon the Japanese-American Society of San Diego will sponsor a picnic at Silver Strand State Beach for the Japanese visitors. The training squadron is scheduled to depart San Diego Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

Park Programs Feature Band, Folk Dancers

Ozzie's Marching Charger Band and the Cabrillo Folk Dancers will be featured in Evenings in the Park programs at the Balboa Park Organ Pavilion this Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p.m., the City Recreation Department has announced.

Douglas Ian Duncan will present an organ recital for the Evening in the Park program on Monday, July 8 at 8 p.m.

The free, public programs are being held throughout the summer. Picnic tables are provided for those who wish to have dinner outdoors before the programs.

Mothers may give their families a gift of healthier hearts and longer lives through a fat-controlled, low-cholesterol diet. Get your free copy of the diet from the San Diego County Heart Association.

. . . . LEARN RESPONSIBILITY
. . . . LEARN TO USE INITIATIVE. IN THIS WORLD OF COMPETITION.
. . . . LEARN TO MEET PEOPLE
. . . . LEARN THE VALUE OF A DOLLAR

The Sentinel needs young businessmen from 10 to 12½ years of age, to bring this community paper to you and your neighbors.

From this first business experience these youngsters learn invaluable lessons that help them in the future.

We of the Sentinel, work closely with these youngsters and you, their parents. We too are parents, therefore we make sure that the problems faced by these youngsters are not beyond their abilities, particularly with our help and your help.

If you have a youngster in this age bracket, call the circulation department of this paper, BR 4-3212, and let us discuss our carrier program with you and your youngster.

Volkswagen's automatic stick shift.
It's easier to use than it is to say.

It's quite a mouthful, isn't it?
But once you get by the name, the rest is easy.
There isn't a clutch pedal to contend with.
And for all practical purposes, you can drive everywhere without shifting.
On the highway, you shift once. (This is like an overdrive: you go faster, your engine goes slower, and your automatic bug won't turn into an automatic hog.)
And when the going gets rough (like up a ridiculously steep hill), you can shift into low.
What could be simpler?
One thing: the automatic stick shift is an option.
So you'll have to pay a little more.
But compared to other automatics, it's a bargain.
Because with every automatic stick shift, we include a remarkable money-saving device:
A Volkswagen.

Ballet La Jeunesse Comes Here For La Jolla Performance July 12

Sherwood Hall, La Jolla, will present Ballet La Jeunesse of Los Angeles, a 26-member company, in a program of four ballets on Friday, July 12, at 8:30 p.m. The company appears under the auspices of the Performing Arts Guild of Beverly Hills, and educational and cultural service for West Coast communities, and features distinguished writer-lecturer Olga Maynard in a commentary on the ballets.

The program will include "Concerto Barocco," a neo-classical work by famed choreographer George Balanchine, set to Johann Sebastian Bach's Concerto in D Major for Two Violins. Ballet La Jeunesse of Los Angeles is the only company west of the Rockies to be granted permission by Balanchine to dance this work.

The company also performs Balanchine's "Serenade," for which New York City Ballet loans the costumes. Both Balanchine works were set on Ballet la Jeunesse of Los Angeles by John Taras, ballet master of the New York City Ballet, who was so impressed by the company, he recently set his own famous work, "Designs With Strings," on the company, which will also be featured.

Also, to be seen the first time in the area is "Le Pas De Quatre," re-created by Miss Clare exactly as she danced it under its choreographer, Anton Dolin, while she was a member of the Markova-Dolin Company, and Natalia Clare's ballet to Benjamin Britten's "Simple Symphony." It is considered that "Simple Symphony" is at the moment 'our signature ballet,' comments Miss Clare, who choreographed the work on dancers trained in her school.

Natalia Clare, artistic director, was a soloist with the original Ballet Russe de Monte Caro; and the company formed by Alicia Markova and Anton Dolin, under the management of Sol Hurok. She also danced with her former husband and partner, Oleg Tupine, in their own troupe and one headed by David Lichine. Miss Clare began teaching while dancing professionally, and formed a school in North Hollywood, from which in 1958 came the company of Ballet la Jeunesse of Los Angeles.

Critics have been lavish in praise of the company. In its home town, Los Angeles, it is described as 'brilliant, and of sparkling virtuosity;' in San Francisco performances, it has been labelled as a 'youthful, exuberant group of impressive shining talent;' and on a visit to Arizona, it was declared "the leading company on the Pacific Coast."

The best criteria of Natalia Clare's training and the standards she has set for her company are in noting the number of dancers which she has contributed to world famous companies, such as: New York City Ballet, American Ballet Theatre, the Joffrey City Center Ballet, the Harkness Ballet, and the Stuttgart Opera Ballet of Germany. Others are in the companies of the San Francisco Ballet, the National Ballet of Washington, D.C., and Les Grands Ballets Canadien.

Many of the 26 dancers currently in Ballet le Jeunesse of Los Angeles are professional artists, working in television, movies and musicals. Tina Blandy was the lead dancer in the "Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca Show" on the West Coast; and Sonya Mahler and Patrice Doty of La Jolla will soon be seen in the movie "Funny Girl;" and Charles Moore works in TV "Specials" and with the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera.

Soloists appearing at Sherwood Hall will be Sonya Maher, Margaret Lauermann, Sandra Adamson, Patrice Doty (a former La Jollan), Susan Sattler, Colette Jeschke, Cynthia Zamperini, Bruce Bain, Charles Moore and Nancy Davis (guest soloist from the School of American Ballet, who recently performed with the American Ballet Workshop at the New York State Theatre at Lincoln Center. She has been granted permission to rejoin Ballet La Jeunesse of Los Angeles for the Sherwood Hall performance.

Tickets for Ballet la Jeunesse of Los Angeles at Sherwood Hall may be purchased at the Turntable Record Shop, 1147 Prospect St., and The Uniform Shop, 7760 Fay St., or by calling 454-1506. Tickets may also be purchased at the Sherwood Hall box-office the afternoon and evening of July 12.

RETURNING HOME—Patrice Doty, formerly of La Jolla will return to Sherwood Hall in La Jolla on July 12 as a soloist with the Ballet la Jeunesse of Los Angeles. Here she is pictured in the "Mendelssohn Concerto" ballet, choreographed by Natalie Care. Miss Doty is a former member of the San Diego Ballet Co.

SEABEE teams, called the "Navy Peace Corps" and each composed of 13 skilled craftsmen, teach Thai and Vietnamese villagers to build schools, farm roads, hospitals, and other community projects.

Strictly Sports

By BOB LEBO

Now that San Diego is a firm member of the National League, the next step is to prepare for drafting players and signing youngsters to be developed in the minor leagues.

The hands of Padre officials are somewhat tied in that no scouts have been employed as yet and this is understandable because all the good ones are hard at work and may not be tampered with.

But one thing is certain: despite a late start the baseball brains who guide the destiny of the Padres have a thorough knowledge of the players on present National League rosters along with the many promising ball players in Triple A and other minor circuits.

Of great interest now is what the padre's schedule will look like next season. The Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants will both appear here with their stars and local fans will get to see top calibre players from all the National League clubs during the campaign.

How many times each of these teams visit the new San Diego Stadium will not be known until the 1969 schedule is released, but the more games with the Dodgers and the Giants, the happier everyone will be.

At this point it appears the National League might go in 1969 with one division composed of 12 teams. This would give every club the same amount of games with every opponent.

This week, however, baseball's executive council, headed by Commissioner William D. Eckert, unanimously recommended that the National League adopt a two-division setup and that the American League retain the present 162-game schedule when both circuits expand to 12 teams next season.

Last month when San Diego and Montreal were granted fanchises, the National League said it would go with one division and a schedule of 162 games.

The American League voted to play with two divisions of six teams each during a 156-game regular season in 1969, followed by a playoff between the division champions for the right to play in the World Series against the National League champs.

Buzzie Bavasi, president of the San Diego club, admits a preference for divisional play. "It's the only thing that really makes sense," he said. "They're going to have to go into divisional play sometime."

Donald Grant, chairman of the New York Mets' board of directors, has proposed an alignment of six-club divisions which is unusual but does hold some merit.

Grant would assign N. L. teams into two divisions on the basis of the previous year's standings. The pennant winner would go in Division A, the runner-up into Division B, third-place club into Division A, No. 4 club into Division B, etc. He would flip a coin to see what division the 1969 expansion clubs would join. He points out that his system would never develop a weak division and teams could play one another the same number of times or close to it.

Grant offers two schedules with one calling for 15 games with every rival for a total of 165 contests while the other proposes 15 games with eight foes and 14 games with the other three opponents.

The idea of changing the division setup every year does not appeal to everyone but there's no doubt that it is better than a 12-team pennant race.

Eddie Leishman, general manager of the Padres, knows a lot about divisional play. The Padres have competed in both the Western and Eastern divisions of the Pacific Coast League.

"I like the divisional setup because you get a chance to see all the clubs and there is a lot more interest generated by this type setup," he said. "The fans have more interest than in a 12-team league.

"We have been satisfied with the two-division setup and our attendance has been real good."

A logical setup for divisions would put San Diego in a lineup with San Francisco, Los Angeles, Houston, St. Louis and the Chicago Cubs. The other division would consist of Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Montreal and the New York Mets.

Although logical, geographically speaking, its doubtful if such a setup would be adopted. And for several reasons. The holdover teams are not anxious to give up dates with top-draw teams like the Dodgers, Giants and St. Louis. Also, rumor has it that the Dodgers prefer to be in a different division than San Diego so that the two teams would never play home games at the same time.

On July 10, the day after the All-Star Game in Houston, there will be a day-long meeting when the various schedule recommendations will be acted upon.

I hope the schedule makers see fit to have the Philadelphia Phillies visit San Diego to begin Major League ball here. What could be more fitting than to have former Padre manager Bob Skinner return here with the Phillies along with many players who once wore the Padre uniform.

Masters Meet Draws Oldtimers

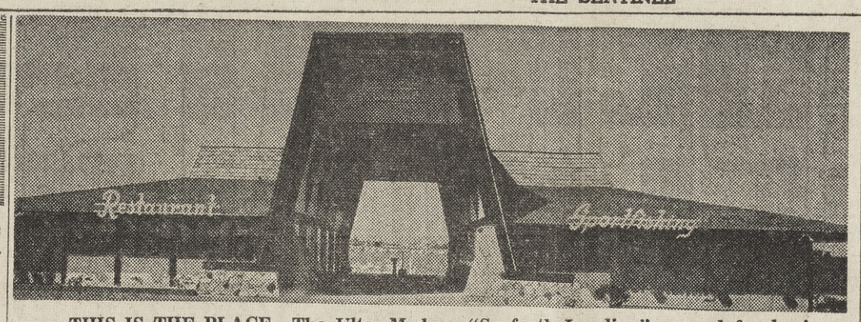
The Masters Track Meet, designed for men over 40, will include at least one 70 year old athlete when it gets underway at Balboa Stadium on July 19, Fred Grace, 70, of Los Angeles notified the meet committee this week of his intention to participate. John A. Kelley, a mere 60, twice winner of the Boston Marathon (26 miles plus) has also forwarded his intention to run.

Competition is planned for both team and individual efforts. Events include all standard meet distances from the 100 yard dash to the classic marathon of 26 miles. Field events include the discuss, triple jump, long jump, javeline, shot-put, and pole vault. Middle and distance runs have been added to include the mile two mile, three mile and six mile distances. A special division for those over 50 years of age has also been added.

The basic idea of the Masters, as conceived by La Jolla Attorney David H. R. Pain, is to emphasize physical fitness among men approaching, or passing, middle age. Running strengthens the cardiovascular system and lessens the dangers of heart attack.

While not all men may wish to compete, it is hoped that the attention focused upon the U. S. Masters will encourage activity among the sedentary, thus improving health and prolonging life.

Each entrant is required to submit a physicians certificate, assuring that he is in good health with no physical defects. Entry blanks may be obtained from the City Recreation Department, Balboa Park, San Diego, California, 92101.



THIS IS THE PLACE—The Ultra-Modern "Seaforth Landing" opened for business this week on Quivira Basin. The new location is several hundred yards east of the former Seaforth Landing which will now be used as a private boat tie-up. The landing is geared for the business-working man featuring ocean fishing on a half day basis. Boats leave the landing at 6 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. daily. Included in the new building is a restaurant opened 24 hours a day. Ample parking, boats, equipment and fish are available, all you add is the fisherman.

Surf Scene

By DOUG SMITH

City Surfing Coordinator

The 1968 World Surfing Championships will be held this November in Puerto Rico. Class 3A/4A surfers up and down the coast are getting into top condition for a series of preliminary contests striving for points and position in an effort to represent the West Coast in the championships. The next qualifying contest will be held in Carlsbad over the weekend of July 20-21. Other preliminary heats are set for Oceanside (Aug. 10), Hermosa Beach (Aug. 17-18), Pacific Beach (Sept. 14-15), Huntington Beach (Sept. 28-29), and Ocean Beach (Oct. 12-13).

The Pacific Beach contest will be a surfing spectacular, drawing contestants from as far away as Hawaii. The Ocean Beach contest will be the deciding meet for 4/A champion class surfers vying for a spot on the Western Surfing Association team.

All surfers 16 and over and those 15 and under who are not active in a club are urged to pick up an entry blank at local board shops for the Las Olas Surf Club-Gordon & Smith Surfboards Open Invitational to be held at La Jolla Shores, Saturday, July 27.

With Summer going into full swing, a word of caution is extended to surfers. Regulations will be strictly enforced along our City beaches. Anyone not certain of the proper areas for surfing or swimming should contact the lifeguards at that beach. Surfers are allowed to surf in Board Surfing Zones all hours of the day. Board surfing is also permitted in a Control Zone up to 11 a.m. and after 6 p.m.

Today's low of minus 0.2 will come at 7:18 a.m. followed by a high of 4.1 arriving at 2:06 p.m. The next low will again occur at 6:48 p.m. with a 2.7 reading. Water temperature is 66 degrees. Surfers interested in a North San Diego County surf report call 753-6221.

Horse Race Office Opens

With the 1968 Del Mar thoroughbred racing season less than a month away, the seaside course's racing office has been opened for business in preparation for the 42-day meet which begins Wednesday, July 24.

James Herbuveaux, aide to Racing Secretary Barry Whitehead, currently is accepting stall applications, which are due by July 6. Also available in the racing office is the first condition book, covering the initial 11 days of the Del Mar meeting.

Fishing Goes Modern At Seaforth Landing

San Diego sportsfishermen have a new landing to brag about. The brand-spanking new Seaforth facility opened officially on Wednesday with a special sports fishing trip for sportsmen. Gulls (hockey, not sea), Rockets, Chargers, Padres, Toros and sports writers tested the seaworthiness of the landing's new 75 foot craft, The Seaforth. All reported the boat to be an ideal fishing platform equipped with a secret ingredient that attracts fish.

The Rocket's rookie sensation Elvin (Big E) Hayes, 6-9 center, proved to be a big man with the fish by capturing a 12-pound yellowtail.

"It's easy," said Hayes. "All you have to do is talk to the fish. If they like you, they'll jump on your line."

The facility at the landing is an ultra-modern affair with one room covering a pair of buildings. The Sports fishing unit takes reservations, maintains a variety of equipment, like hooks, line, weights, jigs and the like. It also serves as a storage area and repair center for reels, rods and other equipment furnished aboard the "Seaforth," and other boats assigned to the landing.

Th Seaforth, according to landing manager J. W. MacMcHolland, is one of the fastest craft in the local fishing fleet. "It'll do 21 knots," said Mac. "There are no bunks aboard, it's designed for half day trips. But if the albacore get within 30 miles we can be there in less than two hours."

On the other side of the passageway is a 24-hour restaurant run by the DeLise family. "Moma" DeLise, (Francine) has the experience and is joined in the venture by sons Knox and Don. Both are taking a sabbatical from established careers. Knox is a geologist, Don is a college professor with a PhD in physics. He recently taught at San Diego State.

Food, equipment and fishing are available for workingmen-fishermen.

Quarterbacks Attend Classes

While everybody else is enjoying summer vacation from school, San Diego Charger quarterbacks are attending classes. John Hadl and company are taking lessons from Professor Sid Gillman using both classroom and laboratory facilities.

Joining Hadl in the class are sophomore pros Jon Brittenum, Arkansas and Kay Stephenson, Florida. A trio of free agents round out the class to six. Taking graduate studies in quarterbacking at Gillman U. are Mike Fair, South Carolina, Ed Reardon, Syracuse and Dave Bennett, Springfield College, (Mass).

The group will hit the laboratory tomorrow with a field exercise after a week of classroom work. The Chargers open their rookie camp on Friday with some 50 draftees and free agents scheduled to report to the Escondido Training site.
